

Thursday, October 9, 1986

Editors' note

So you missed Morocco at Duke in fall of '85? Not to worry - in this week's feature story, Trinity sophomore Stephen Batten tells of his exploits in balmy, palmy Morocco last summer as a participant in Duke's program. It's enough to make you want to paint your room a lovely shade of terra-cotta.

In the review-preview departments, Jason Evans slaughters "The Boy Who Could Fly," a recent film which can't quite seem to get off the ground. Trinity junior Greg Walker is much more generous in his laudatory review of ex-Traffic leader Steve Winwood's latest offering, "Back in the High Life."

Mark Woodlief and Todd Goss of WXDU have clued us in on some musicians from Greensboro, N.C., who are receiving comparatively wider acclaim abroad than at home. The Othermothers and Eugene Chadbourne will be offering up their respective brands of music tomorrow night at the Coffeehouse on East Campus.

Also tomorrow night, Branford Marsalis will toot his own horn (or sax, as it were) in a concert in Page as part of the Umbria Festival. Up and coming Elektra recording artist Dave Adams will be appearing at He's Not Here in Chapel Hill.

Finally, Ted Rex continues the bumbling of his character Sidney in his desperate attempt to find the right fashion statement in such a fickle world as ours.

R&R

Editors: Leslie Kovach, Adrienne Salisbury

Contributors: Stephen Batten, Jason Evans, Todd Goss, Ted Rex, Greg Walker, Mark Woodlief

Paste-up: Marjorie Corbett, Rolly Miller

Typesetting: Lane Hensley

Mentor: Carrie Teegardin

wXdu
fm 88.7

Eugene Chadbourne and
THE OTHERMOTHERS

at The Coffeehouse on East Campus
Friday, October 10 at 10:00pm
Admission $2 with Duke I.D., $3 without presents...

Celebrate Chocolate Sunday

Francesca is 1 year old! And you're invited to her party October 12th.

From noon 'til 5 pm,
1/2 price on everything chocolate

Indulge yourself - 9 different chocolate ice creams . . .
homemade hot fudge . . . brownies . . .

1918 Perry Street · Durham (off Ninth) · 286-4177

South Square Mall
upper level near belks
mon-sat 10-9
sundays 1-6

489-1917

CHRISTMAS
Is Right Around The Corner
EARN EXTRA MONEY
FOR THOSE EXTRAS YOU AND YOUR FAMILY DESERVE!
$6.50-$8.00 Per Hour
Depending On Skills
Part-Time, Temporary
TECHNICAL TYPISTS
60 wpm minimum (typing test will be given). Flexible